250 TEACHERS AT INSTITUTE SESSIONS HERE

Dr. Robert C. Shaw
And C. William Duncan Deliver Addresses.

DINNER SERVED AT NOON TODAY

Approximately 250 Gettysburg and Adams county school teachers were present today for morning and afternoon sessions of the second one-day teachers' institutes here.

The morning session, beginning at 9 o'clock at Gettysburg high school, opened with the invocation by the Rev. Spencer W. Aungst. Prof. J. Floyd Slaybaugh, county superintendent of schools, presided. Professor Ira Y. Baker, assistant county superintendent, welcomed the teachers to Gettysburg after which Professor Charles L. Yost, of Biglerville, gave the report of the delegates to the Pennsylvania state educational association convention. Mr. Yost also sang a solo at the morning session.

Dinner Is Served
Speakers at the morning session were Dr. Robert C. Shaw, of Camp Hill, on the subject, "Modern Trends in Education," and C. William Duncan, Philadelphia newspaper columnist, who talked on "Closings of Famous People I Have Interviewed."

More than 270 teachers and guests were present at a dinner in the social rooms of St. James Lutheran church at 12:30 o'clock, which opened the afternoon session.

Keefauver Presides
Professor L. C. Keefauver, superintendent of the Gettysburg public schools, was toastmaster at the banquet and presided at the afternoon session.

Music for the banquet and at the afternoon session included group singing, led by Professor Yost; a quartet, Professor Yost, Dale H. Roth, Robert C. Noll and Edwin S. Longenecker, and vocal solos by Professor Dale H. Roth and Miss S. Alma Myers.

Doctor Shaw and Mr. Duncan again spoke this afternoon, the former on the subject, "Smile Awhile" and the latter, "The Presidential Outlook for 1936."

In his morning talk, Doctor Shaw pointed to newspapers, the radio and modern methods of transportation as affecting modern education. "These things," he said, "along with education make us at home anywhere in the world."

"Your success as teachers will not be measured by the knowledge you impart in the minds of your pupils but by what you make out of the boys and girls entrusted to your care."

Makes Predictions
The predictions that Al Smith will blast President Roosevelt in his speech before the Liberty League in Washington, D. C., tonight and that Senator Borah, of Idaho, will never gain the Republican nomination were made at the afternoon session of the institute by C. William Duncan, native of Gettysburg and Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger columnist.

Mr. Duncan spoke here as a "pinch hitter" in place of Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, of State College, who yesterday told Professor J. Floyd Slaybaugh, superintendent of schools for Adams county, that she couldn't get through to Gettysburg because of the blizzard. Mr. Slaybaugh communicated with Mr. Duncan, who appeared before eleven county institutes in various parts of the state last fall, and the speaker arrived here at 4 a. m. this morning and will leave this evening for Philadelphia to help complete plans for the sporting writers banquet Tuesday night.

Colored Veteran Is Buried Here

Henry Cotton, colored world war veteran, who died at the Aspinwall veterans' hospital, Wednesday, was buried with military honors in the national cemetery here this morning.

Cotton, a native of Florida, was a member of Co. A, 546th engineers, and enlisted August 3, 1918 and was discharged July 1, 1919.

The chaplain, bugler and pallbearers were members of a CCC camp here.

Business Women's Club

By E. F. MacPherson
The first meeting (organization) of the Business and Professional Women's club of the Y. W. C. A. was held October 14, 1935. The term "business and professional" refers to women and girls in business and professional offices, to professional workers, such as teachers, nurses, librarians, etc., and to women operating their own businesses. This differentiation is kept strictly in cities but in small towns there are "border line" occupations which are admitted. The membership is divided into three groups—

34 NAMES ARE STRICKEN OFF RELIEF ROLLS

Twenty Other Cases Are Opened in Adams County as
Of Jan. 18.

EXPENDITURES TOTAL $1,117.66

Thirty-four cases were closed and twenty opened on the state direct relief rolls in Adams county during the week ending January 18, according to a report just released by the Pennsylvania emergency relief administration.

Of the number of cases closed five received private employment, twenty-four previously secured employment on the works program and five were closed for other reasons.

During the same time a total of 883 persons in the county representing 179 cases were on the relief rolls. Relief expenditures totalled $1,117.66. Three new applications were received for relief.

The number of cases opened on Pennsylvania's direct relief rolls totaled 10,282 which was the largest number of additions in any week during the week ending January 18 since the end of August, 1935.

A net reduction for the week of 3,622 cases resulted when 13,904 cases were closed. At the same time 33 of the 67 counties reported increased case loads.

Relief Increases

Applications for relief throughout the state showed little change from the six-months high point reached the previous week. A total of 15,031 applications were received indicating a seasonal increase in relief needs which has followed the advent of cold weather in previous years.

A total of 214,365 relief cases, made up of 725,720 persons, remained on state direct relief rolls January 18. An additional 1,156 cases, previously transferred to the works program, received emergency food orders at the request of local WPA officials pending issue of delayed pay checks.

Among the 10,282 relief cases opened during the week, 1,046 were accepted because of loss of works program employment and approximately 7,000 because of loss of private employment.

Pulls Market Products Here On Small Sled

The season's honors go to Samuel Wingert, of near Arendtsville, in his determination to overcome the obstacles of winter which have held Adams county farmers fast to their farms during the past week.

Mr. Wingert, who attends the Farmer's market regularly, was among those unable to attend during the past week due to the impassable condition of the roads. However, the upper county farmer determined to attend market this morning.

Lashing his farm products of pork, lard and other rural commodities to a small child's sled, Mr. Wingert set out this morning about 5 o'clock to bring his products to Gettysburg. Coasting with his load down the hills and dragging it up the hills he completed his long, cold journey shortly after 9 o'clock this morning.

On his trip to Gettysburg Mr. Wingert cut across fields to reach Mummaburg. From there he followed the highway to Gettysburg. Disaster almost overtook the determined farmer at the railroad crossing on Oak Ridge. As he was coasting down the grade his sled hit a rough spot at the crossing and bounded several feet in the air. However, upon a hasty examination Mr. Wingert found his cargo of pork, lard, butter and eggs to have miraculously escaped any damage.

W. W. Boyer, of Arendtsville, gave Mr. Wingert a lift home today in his car.

Gettysburg Couple Will Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary on Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. John Charles Wright will observe their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home, 152 East Middle street, Sunday. A dinner for their children, grandchildren and a few guests will be a feature of the occasion.

Mr. Wright, janitor at the First National bank for 27 years, and Mrs. Wright, the former Miss Alice Catharine Stevens, daughter of the late Jacob and Elizabeth Stevens, Gettysburg R. D., were married January 26, 1886, in the parsonage of St. James' Lutheran church here by the Rev. Dr. A. R. Steck, of Carlisle.

Married by Student
The Rev. Dr. Steck was a student at the Lutheran theological seminary at the time, and the ceremony was the first wedding at which he officiated. Mrs. Joel Schwartz, wife of the pastor at St. James' then, was the only witness.

Mr. Wright, a son of the late Jesse and Margaret Wright, was born at Idaville, and was a carpenter for more than 25 years before he began working at the bank. For the greater part of their married life, Mr. and Mrs. Wright have resided in Gettysburg and vicinity. For the past 30 years they have resided at 152 East Middle street.

Both Mr. Wright, who is 72, and his wife, who is three years his junior, enjoy good health.

Active in Church
The couple have had four children, one of them having died at the age of eight. The others are Clarence L. Wright, West Middle street; Jacob J. Wright, South Washington street, and Miss Edith C. Wright, at home. They also have four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wright have been active members of St. James' Lutheran church for many years.

More Roads Opened as Mercury Moves Upward

Moderating temperatures today gave promise that Nature herself will take a hand in the removal of snow from the past week's two blizzards, but like the fickle thing she is, she forecast more snow for the week-end.

Early this morning, the recording thermometer of Dr. Henry Stewart, Gettysburg weather recorder, registered 2 below zero, a little warmer than Friday morning. Friday's maximum was 16 degrees.

After working throughout the night, the local office of the state highway department reported this morning that the Emmitsburg road was open to one-way traffic. This was the last of the main highways radiating from Gettysburg to be cleared of snow drifted by the Wednesday evening blizzard.

The Biglerville road, blocked since Wednesday evening, was finally opened at 4 o'clock. Friday afternoon, but like the Emmitsburg road, the Biglerville highway was only open to one-way traffic.

The Harrisburg road was cleared to one-way traffic in places between Gettysburg and Shriver's crossing at noon, Friday.

The Mummaburg road, along with other secondary routes, was still closed today, but the highway department has begun work on other rural highways.

Hospital Tea
Is Postponed;
Meet on Monday

Because of adverse road conditions which make it impossible for a number of members to attend the tea and annual reports which were to be included in the January meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Annie M. Warner hospital have been postponed until the February meeting.

The meeting, scheduled for Monday, will be held at the usual time and there will be the election of officers.

The annual reports and the annual tea will be held in February.

Children Enjoy
Marionette Show

Snow-clogged highways throughout the county, bitter cold weather and the postponement of the one-day teachers' institute from Friday until today were contributing factors that failed to make the marionette show in Bruns Chapel Friday afternoon and evening a financial success.

The afternoon performance was well attended by children and adults, but the cold weather in the evening is believed to have kept a number of patrons away.

Creditable performances were rendered in the afternoon and evening and the children, especially, enjoyed the circus feature.

Seasonable Offerings Are Plentiful Despite Heavy Snow
And Gale.

EGGS BOOSTED 2c PER DOZEN

With the roads well cleared since the heavy snow and gale during the past week, little difficulty was experienced by most farmers in their efforts to reach Gettysburg for this morning's session of market. Eleven marketmen were on hand at the Farmer's market and two at the Gettysburg market house. While buyers were few, seasonable offerings were plentiful.

Standard eggs advanced two cents today and were quoted at 30 cents a dozen, some farmers selling their supply at 28 cents. Pullet eggs were 26 cents a dozen. A limited amount of butter found ready sale at 30 cents a pound.

Quotations on fresh pork were about the same as previously quoted with the exception of sausage which was sold at 23 cents a pound, a drop of two cents from the previous price.

Dressed Chickens

A supply of dressed chickens exceeded the demand, and sold at 33 cents a pound, averaging from 90 cents to $1.75 each.

Apple, peach and grape butter was 25 cents a quart, 15 cents a pint; jellies of all descriptions were sold at 10 and 15 cents a glass.

Pies—apple, pumpkin, mince, blackberry and grape—were 15, 20, and 25 cents each, depending on the size. Loaf cakes sold at prices ranging from 35 to 60 cents each.

Cabbage was four cents a pound; sauerkraut, 15 cents a quart; carrots and beets, five cents a bunch; sweet potatoes 15 cents a quarter peck; turnips, 10 cents a quarter peck; cottage cheese, 10 cents a pack, and buttermilk, five cents a quart.

First grade potatoes sold at $1 a bushel with seconds bringing 50 cents a bushel. Apples, of different varieties, sold at prices previously quoted.

PARIS PREMIER FORMS CABINET

Delays Vote in Chamber Until After Funeral of English Monarch.

Paris, Jan. 25 (AP)—Premier Albert Sarraut hastily formed the one-hundred-and-first cabinet of the Third French Republic Friday to keep peace among France's bickering political forces until the spring elections.

The successor to Pierre Laval postponed his appearance in the chamber of deputies, however, until next Thursday, to be certain he would not be overthrown before President Albert Lebrun and two of his ministers, Pierre-Etienne Flandin and Francois Pietri, could attend the funeral of King George V of England.

Sarraut's cabinet will meet Sunday to draft a program to "defend our finances and the country's security." Selection of Marcel Regnier, as minister of finance, indicated a continuation of Laval's policy of non-evaluation of the franc.

Choice of Flandin as foreign minister, however, alarmed some nationalists. They feared his well-known admiration for the British would cause him to swing toward that nation, thus upsetting Laval's nice balance between Italy and England.

Sarraut, a veteran of the Radical Socialist party, which was largely responsible for the Laval cabinet's collapse, had served briefly as Premier before. He took over himself the interior ministry, which controls election machinery and funds.

His cabinet, slightly more Leftist than that of Laval apparently, will give the Radical Socialists an advantage in the forthcoming elections, provided it lasts that long. Most of the members are also deputies, with a few of Laval's Ministers remaining.

En route to the Elysee Palace to present his ministry to President Lebrun, Sarraut eliminated Jouis Jacquinot from his job as under secretary of war and changed the title of Maxence Bibie from under secretary of justice to under secretary of labor.

2 WILL DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Principals in Eggnog Poisoning Case Are Found Guilty by Jury.

Mineola, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—A jury of 12 men voted death in the electric chair today for Mrs. Mary Frances Creighton and Everett C. Applegate for the poison eggnog slaying of Applegate's stout wife, Ada.

The verdict came after three hours and 40 minutes of deliberation.

Applegate, 36, who admitted intimacies with Mrs. Creighton's 15-year-old daughter, Ruth, but denied any part in the death of his wife, smiled when he heard the verdict.

Mrs. Creighton, 32, who testified she put poison into an eggnog for Mrs. Applegate, sat with bowed head, pale but calm.

The state contended Applegate's 268-pound wife was poisoned after she discovered her husband's relations with Mrs. Creighton and her daughter in the "quadrangle" house shared by the two families.

Two hundred spectators pressed forward noisily as the jury announced the decision. Judge Cortland A. Johnson, restoring order quickly, set January 30 as the date to pronounce the mandatory death sentence.

He then went into detail to explain his reasons for this statement, telling of his two meetings with former Governor Smith and the latter's bristling attitude when the name of Roosevelt was brought up. Mr. Duncan made it clear he liked the former Governor personally and was merely giving impressions. He said there was no reason in the world why the two should still be bosom pals.

As to Borah he said he will not get the nomination, in his judgment, because Borah is a liberal and "the leaders of the Republican party will want a man who will stay hatched, a man who will lead them back to the old deal and not go ahead to 'out-deal' the new dealers." He mentioned Governor Landon, of Kansas, as being "out in front right now."

Quotes Governor
The speaker also gave his impressions of Governor Philip La Follette, of Wisconsin, whom he interviewed at length a week ago and related that La Follette had said it would take a true progressive to carry the West for the Republican, "not Hoover or Hoover's half-brother dressed up to look like a Progressive."

Mr. Duncan's remarks in the afternoon were confined to a discussion of the 1936 presidential fight. At the morning session he gave his lecture, "Close Ups of Famous People."

Fail in Attempts to Burn Fireproof Ship

Washington, Jan. 25.—As icy winds swept the decks, federal shipping experts tried in vain three times to burn the reconditioned steamer Nantasket, off Fort Austus, Va., in the James river, the commerce department reported Friday.

The first of a series of tests, designed to try out new fire resisting materials for ship construction, proved the qualities of the new fireproofing which, in consequence, may be henceforth required in ocean-going vessels. The tests are an outcome of the Merco Castle fire disaster and the clamor for sea-safety.

The experiments, which will continue for at least a week, were carried on in one of nine special compartments, constructed as standard size cabins, fully equipped with bedding, furniture, trunks and passengers' clothing.

Snow Plows Stalled
Snow plows stalled in huge drifts on U. S. route 50 in Mineral county remained snowbound and frozen. Long lines of automobiles awaited help. The Roads commission announced. The highway was open Thursday night and part of Friday, but a fifty-mile gale blew the snow back.

Governor Kump waited two hours as the drifted spot, then detoured eighty miles by route 220 through Mount Storm and Petersburg to go to Washington, where he will confer with Federal officials on social security plans.

U. S. route 250, in Marshall county, remained impassable, while travel was hazardous on all roads because of ice.

Families Without Heat
WPA workmen dug through drifts in the Eastern Panhandle.

At Clay, about thirty-five families were without heat after gas pressure became too low, but State troopers reported "no real hardship."

Supplies of food became low in several sections, and country folk trudged through drifts eight and ten feet deep with sacks of food.

Schools remained closed in a dozen counties.

R. H. Rummager, 74, Jackson county farmer, died of exposure as he walked to a neighbor's home, a half mile away.

Promise of relief this week-end cheered residents. Weston, with an official 20 below zero, was the coldest spot in the State. Other marks, all unofficial, were 18 below for Terra Alta, and 10 below for Clarksburg, Parkersburg and Princeton. Charleston's low was 5 below; Martinsburg's, 2 below.

Justice Van Devanter Forgiven For Frat Prank 55 Years Old

Chicago, Jan. 25 (AP)—A college prank committed fifty-five years ago by Justice Willis Van Devanter, of the United States supreme court, was officially "forgotten" Friday by the fraternity which expelled him for it.

The offense, so old no one could remember just what it was, was adjudged "trivial" and he is again a brother of Sigma Chi.

The justice, who became a member of Beta Theta Pi as soon as Sigma Chi dropped him in 1881, accepted the re-instatement "in the same kindly and fraternal spirit" in which it was offered, Chester W. Cleveland, editor of the Sigma Chi magazine, disclosed.

It came about as a result of efforts of John S. McMillan, Roche Harbor, Washington, who pledged the future jurist and initiated him.

McMillan held Van Devanter had been wronged in his expulsion, which followed "schoolboy disagreement."

Also, Editor Cleveland said, it was embarrassing for the fraternity to issue a directory carrying the name of a supreme court justice and opposite it the word "expelled."

To get the justice back, Sigma Chi had to ask Beta Theta Pi's permission. The Betas agreed, making Van Devanter one of the country's few dual fraternity men.

"COLD" WAVE AGAIN SUNDAY

Sub-Zero Temperature Moderates Today But Renewal Is Forecast.

Chicago, Jan. 25 (AP).—Slight moderation in the Arctic-like weather which has held most of the nation in an icy grasp for several days was forecast today as the tabulated list of dead in the worst sub-zero siege of the twentieth century exceeded 150.

Even while the slightly warmer prediction was issued, the mercury began dropping in the northwest states, birthplace of most of the nation's winter storms.

The Milwaukee observers reported an unofficial six degrees below zero at midnight (C.S.T.). The official forecast was for a rise to above zero today, but added "relief will end Sunday with a new sub-zero plunge."

The severe cold wave that took 15 Pennsylvania lives in three days apparently was on its way out, but reports that more snow was coming from the west gave scant promise of week-end relief from the season's hardest weather.

Fires and the difficulty of fighting them added to the cold in some communities.

Hoffman, of New Jersey, center of the Hauptmann controversy; Fritz Crisler, coach of the undefeated Princeton eleven, and Berney Ross, welterweight boxing champion, are included among the guests.

For the first time in the Association's history a trophy will be awarded the most courageous athlete of the year.

CONSPIRACY TO KILL CASE SENT TO HAGERSTOWN

Attorneys for Rockville, Md., Woman Granted Change Of Venue.

Rockville, Md., Jan. 25 (AP)—A change of venue for the second trial of Mrs. Anne Lyddane, former bank secretary charged with conspiracy to murder her husband, was granted Friday by the Sixth Maryland Circuit court.

The defense scored another point when the court disregarded a suggestion by State's Attorney James H. Pugh that trial be moved to Baltimore and decided that it would be held in Hagerstown. The second trial was to have opened here next Monday, but will be postponed now to permit the court in that district to fix a date.

Wide Discussion Cited
The change of venue was granted after State Senator Stedman Prescott, chief of defense counsel, introduced seventy affidavits in which Montgomery county residents attested that in their opinion Mrs. Lyddane could not obtain a "fair and impartial" trial in this community.

In this connection, Senator Prescott explained to the court that the case had been widely and frequently discussed in detail "by almost every person in the county able to take part in such a discussion" and declared that this could not help but have some influence upon prospective jurors.

Hasband Is Absent
Francis S. Lyddane, whom police claim was marked for death by his wife and Washington underworld characters in her employ, was not present during the hearing Friday afternoon. He remained by his wife's side throughout the first trial and expressed implicit confidence in his wife's innocence.

Opposing the motion of the defense attorneys, State's Attorney Pugh offered ten affidavits in which county residents claimed that Mrs. Lyddane could obtain a fair trial in this county.

Boland Conviction Recalled
One point brought out by the defense was that the decision of the court in convicting John Martin Boland of conspiring to murder Lyddane might influence a Montgomery county jury in her second trial, if held here.

Boland was tried by the court before Mrs. Lyddane's case last June, but the court's decision was withheld until after her trial was completed and the jury had been discharged while deadlocked.

KING EDWARD SETS ANOTHER PRECEDENT

London, Jan. 25 (AP)—King Edward VIII, the first British ruler to fly, created another precedent Thursday.

His message to parliament, in which he said "I am resolved to follow in the way of (King George V) has set before me," was framed in the first person.

Hitherto all such messages have been in the third person, for instance, the message from the late King George when he became Britain's ruler in 1910: "The King knows," etc.

Sunday-School Leader Charged With Burning His Wife to Death

Ithaca, Mich., Jan. 25 (AP).—Sheriff William Nestle arrested George Blank, farmer and Sunday school superintendent, Friday on a charge of murdering his wife by setting fire to a chair in which she lay unconscious from an anesthetic.

The arrest ended a three-week investigation of Mrs. Blank's death.

Blank, 24-year-old adopted son of a well-to-do Maple Rapids family, denied the charge, insisting his wife died from burns she suffered when the chair, into which she apparently sank after a stove explosion, became ignited.

Blank demanded an examination which Justice Howard A. Potter set for February 3. Edward W. Fehling, state senator of St. Johns, was named as Blank's attorney.

Mrs. Blank, Michigan state college graduate and an expectant mother, was found burned to death in the home, near Middleton January 5.

Blank told officers he was at his barn when he heard an explosion. Reaching the house, he found the living room in flames, he said, vainly tried to pull his wife to safety and then attempted to call his foster father on the telephone.

Sheriff Nestle said he based the charge on his investigation which showed there were no marks of the fire on Blank's clothing, and on the finding of a chloroform bottle in a stove. A kerosene bottle stood in its usual place, he said, contradicting the theory that Mrs. Blank's clothing was ignited when she poured oil on a fire in the living-room stove.

The couple was married in 1933. Blank is superintendent of a Sunday school at Maple Rapids, Mich.

An Evening Thought

A PUZZLE
 By Sylvia W. Schwartz

"You'n' I must take good care of Mother."
 That's what my Dad has often said to me.
 I guess he's right, and yet some time or other
 I got to thinkin' 'bout it wond'ringly.
 My Mother, she's a-hustlin' all day through!
 She puts Dad's clothes away—takes out the stains,
 An' cooks our meals 'n' mends Dad's socks like new,
 An' sees that we wear rubbers when it rains.
 She even looks out for the payin'! Always tendin' one of us or t'other.
 That's why it puzzles me when Dad keeps sayin'
 That him 'n' me must take good care of Mother!

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE WORTHY PURSUIT

THE story behind every really worthwhile enterprise is that of single-ness of aim and purpose.
 The scattering of energy and the aimless mind are characteristics of the unsuccessful and unhappy human being. Such as are forever envying the more alert and purposeful.
 We all look with pride and admiration upon that one who has given his heart and all to the perfecting of some art that is pre-eminently his own. The painter, the etcher, the writer, the gardner, the metal artisan, the sculptor, the farmer—the mother!
 To do the one thing in life that brings the greatest amount of satisfaction to oneself, and in the larger sense, to others, is not this the most worthy pursuit possible?
 To be forever wanting things that we know can never be ours, to be envious of others who have many things which we do not possess, to dream without doing, to be idle when there is so much to do—what a waste of the precious substance that is ourselves!
 To have an objective, to drive earnestly and with a full heart, ignoring the pesky irritations along the way, hurdling all obstructions with zest and faith, and with that divine belief in oneself that is the heritage of all, this alone is to achieve.
 We must learn to honor our own understanding and to respect our own ability to be different, and unique within ourselves.
 The worthy pursuit is that one which brings happiness to the heart, health to the body, and friends to your side.

each member; to help each one be more active in the moral and social issues of the day; and to carry a responsible part in the life of the association.
 The officers of the club and the chairmen of standing committees form a cabinet which has the responsibility of formulating a program of events which are approved by the club at proper intervals. The cabinet also has authority to act on matters of policy between regular business meetings. There are five standing committees, namely, the membership, service, public affairs, ways and means and finance.
 When the club work opens in the fall the members hold a consecration service, attending worship in a local church, followed by a high tea at the Y. W. C. A. A masked party is held in October. Each November a world fellowship meeting is conducted. At this time groups of business and professional women from all over the world turn their thoughts and ability to international friendship. An annual St. Nicholas party is held every December, at which time the club entertains little girls of the town and gives them Christmas gifts. Baskets of food and toys are also distributed to the needy. Later the club holds a Christmas dinner for its members. In February, a St. Valentine party is held, and later in the season a week-end camping trip and corn-bake. Each March a nation-wide observance banquet is held. In this way the club maintains a rather "full calendar" of social events.
 In 1935, a series of monthly group discussions on "How to Get Along With People" were held. Prominent local people led in the following discussions: "How to Get Along with Our Families and Friends," "How to Get Along with Our Employees," "How to Get Along with Our Community" and "How to Get Along with God."
 At the beginning of this year a series of monthly "Sally-Forth" nights was instituted. This is being done in order that the members of the club may become acquainted with the workings of the various local institutions and concerns.
 Each year the club makes a cash pledge of $100 to the Y. W. C. A. drive. In addition to this they also help to keep the equipment

1825 FISHERMEN LOST ON ICE IN CASPIAN SEA

Guriev, Kazan Republic, U. S. S. R., Jan. 25 (AP).—Efforts to locate an ice field on which 1,825 fishermen-castaways are lost in the Caspian Sea remained fruitless today.

The fishermen continued to maintain contact with the shore by wireless but were unable to give the location of the ice field.

When the field split from the shore eight days ago, five wagons loaded with fish and several horses fell into the water and were lost, the castaways reported, but there were no human casualties.

The fishermen said they had sufficient food and fodder for forty days, but that there was constant danger of the ice field breaking up. The men have 1,400 horses with them.

MAROONS TRAIN FOR NEXT GAME

Hazardous Road Conditions Force Postponement of Mechanicsburg Tilt.

Forced into idleness Friday evening when hazardous road conditions prevented them from journeying to Mechanicsburg for a league game, the Gettysburg high school cagers lost no time in starting to prime themselves for the next tilt with Hanover high here Tuesday evening.

Coach Forney sent his squad through a strenuous scrimmage Friday afternoon against a team composed of former high school players. The Maroons have been idle since Friday, January 17, and every effort is being made to overcome the handicaps the long layoff may develop.

While Hanover high has not turned in an impressive record during the early stages of the season, scores indicate the Nighthawks are rapidly moulding into a formidable outfit would like nothing better than to snap the winning streak of the Maroons and will put forth to accomplish just that.

To date the Maroons remain in the select class of the undefeated. Five straight games have been won by the locals, two of which were league games. At present the Maroons and Mechanicsburg are deadlocked for the leadership of Southern Pennsylvania interscholastic conference with two wins and no defeats.

DECLARES THEFT OF COAL CONDONED BY OFFICIALS

Port Dodge, Iowa, Jan. 25 (AP).—A daylight theft of thirty tons of coal brought a charge Friday from County Attorney E. J. Breen, that it.

About sixty men trucked the fuel away from a freight car Thursday. Breen termed it an "appalling state of affairs" and said he understood a group of men, the majority WPA workers, had warned authorities they needed coal and intended to get it if relief agencies did not meet their demands.

Execute Negro in Lethal Gas Chamber

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—Allen Foster, 20-year-old Birmingham, Ala., negro was asphyxiated Friday for criminal assault on a white woman in the first lethal gas execution east of the Mississippi. Eleven minutes after the electrical apparatus operating the gas generating equipment was tripped, physicians pronounced Foster dead. Foster insisted:

"There ain't no use of my talking to a preacher. I can tell the Lord I ain't guilty as good as I can tell it to a preacher."

PHONE GIRL STAYS ON DUTY IN FACE OF FIRE THREAT

Seymour, Ind., Jan. 25 (AP).—A fire, which for a time threatened an entire downtown business block, including the telephone exchange, Friday was brought under control after it had gutted two two-story buildings, doing damage estimated at $25,000 to $30,000.

The furnace serving the telephone exchange was put out of commission, but the girls continued at their posts in 12-degrees-above-zero temperatures.

MOTHER FINDS BABY DEAD OF SUFFOCATION

Cumberland, Jan. 25 (AP).—The death of 9-week-old Robert McKinley Meese was described Friday by Coroner George P. Paulman as probably due to suffocation while asleep.

The baby was found dead Friday morning at the two-room home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Meese, of Eowman's Addition. Meese is unemployed.

The house is warmed only by a small stove in the kitchen. Authorities said they believed the mother, to keep the infant warm, wrapped it too snugly in the bed clothing. There is one other child in the family.

Keep AHEAD of the JONESES

THERE'S just one way to be "better off" than the other people on your street. . . . In order to keep ahead, you must think and act first. And that can be done by any one who decides to do it, whatever the family income.
 For instance, some people are smart enough to buy things when prices are down. Right now, of course, you can find sheets and towels and other supplies for the house at lowest-this-year prices. And that isn't all. . . . Some time this winter you will find underwear for the children, gloves for yourself, pajamas for the head of the house—and many, many more things offered at 'way-down prices.
 All sorts of special buys will keep bobbing up, if you watch the advertisements in this newspaper—and keep thinking ahead, and buying ahead.
 Where will you get all the money, you ask? . . . Well, it doesn't take MORE money to be better off, this way. Actually it takes LESS. The pennies you save by timely buying add up to dollars in the end.

RED BATTLES ANCIENT LAW

Georgia Solicitor General Seeks to Uphold Insurrection Statute.

Atlanta, Jan. 25 (AP).—John A. Boykin, solicitor-general, said Friday "the doctrine of violence is indicated in the mind of every communist" and asked the state supreme court to uphold the 1865 insurrection law under which Angelo Herndon was sentenced to 18 to 20 years on the chain gang.

The Fulton (Atlanta) county solicitor said Herndon, Cincinnati native, 1932 because he advocated armed communist, was convicted in overthrow of the state and the setting up of a "black-belt republic" in negro sections from Virginia to Texas.

Law Ruled "Too Vague"
The statute, passed in reconstruction days, was ruled invalid in a lower court because it was "too vague." Herndon, released on $8,000 bond, went to New York, where he recently addressed liberal gatherings.

"The communist party interlocks with the Soviet Republic of Russia," Boykin said. "The American branch preaches overthrow of the government by force and violence."

Attorneys for the negro, retained by the international labor defense, argued the law restricted the freedom of speech and assembly.

ICY BAY HOLDS TRAGEDY SECRET

One Person Found Frozen,
Another With Broken Neck; Third Missing.

Lewes, Del., Jan. 25 (AP). — The icy waters of Delaware Bay still hold the secret of a sea tragedy Thursday that has developed angles of a mystery drama.

The drama centers around three men thought lost in the wreck of the schooner Nahma. The bodies of two have been found, one frozen to death on the New Jersey beach and another found with a broken neck in the hold of the vessel. The third man is still missing.

Cape May coast guard authorities reported Friday the finding of an unidentified man's frozen body on the beach five miles from Cape May Point. The body was found by a schoolboy late Thursday. It wore a life belt.

Craft on Sand Bar
This morning the coast guard found the wreck of the 45-foot schooner, the Nahma, on a sand bar two miles offshore, with one mast above water and the other broken off. In the ice-encrusted hold was the body of another man, identified from papers in his pocket as Capt. Knute Stokes, 1775 Jarvis avenue, Bronx, New York, owner of the boat. His neck was broken and his shoulders crushed.

Almost simultaneously with the discovery of the wreck the Cape May authorities were notified by the district headquarters at New York to locate the missing craft, Nahma, which left Wilmington, Delaware, Wednesday, bound for City Island, New York, and carrying the following crew: Captain Stokes, Charles Carlson and Henry Johnson.

Third Man Sought
The bodies of the two men were taken to the office of Coroner L. J. Hand, of Cape May, where one of them is unidentified.

The third man is still the object of intensive search along the New Jersey and Delaware beaches. Coast guardsmen believe it is unlikely he survived the disaster and that his body will probably be found soon, as the bay is now frozen three miles from shore.

They believe the Nahma foundered in the northwest gale of Wednesday night. Another supposition is that Captain Stokes was killed

THE BOOMERANG CLUE
BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS: So far as anybody can determine, the man found dying at the foot of a cliff near the Marchbolt golf course fell accidentally. Frankie Derwent views the occurrence with suspicion but Bobby Jones, who found the man, sees nothing out of the way. He has arranged to help Budgey Heaton with a garage in London, and when a mysterious offer to go to South America at a very high salary arrives, feels he must refuse. Now Frankie is asking Bobby to come to a party in London, and Bobby, feeling that he would be out of place in her wealthy set, is refusing.

Chapter Nine.
PICNIC

"When you're quite finished expressing your inferiority complex," said Frankie coldly, "perhaps you'll try getting out of the bunker with a niblick instead of a putter."

"Have I—oh, damn!" He replaced the putter in his bag and took out the niblick. Frankie watched with malicious satisfaction as he hacked at the ball five times in succession. Clouds of sand rose round them.

"Your hole," said Bobby, picking up the ball.

"I think it is," said Frankie. "And that gives me the match."

"Shall we play the bye?"

"No. I don't think so. I've got a lot to do."

"Of course. I suppose you have."

They walked together in silence to the clubhouse.

"Well," said Frankie, holding out her hand. "Good-bye, my dear. It's been too marvellous to have you to make use of while I've been down here. See something of you again, perhaps, when I've nothing better to do."

"Look here, Frankie—"

"Perhaps you'll condescend to come to my coster party. I believe you can get pearl buttons quite cheaply at Woolworth's."

"Frankie—"

His words were drowned in the noise of the Bentley's engine which Frankie had just started. She drove away with an airy wave of her hand.

"Damn!" said Bobby in a heart-felt tone.

Frankie, he considered, had behaved outrageously. Perhaps he hadn't put things very tactfully, but dash it all, what he had said was true enough. Perhaps, though, he shouldn't have put it into words.

The next three days seemed interminably long. The Vicar had a sore throat which necessitated his speaking in a whisper when he spoke at all. He spoke very little and was obviously bearing his fourth son's presence as a Christian shield.

Once or twice he quoted Shakespeare on how sharper than a serpent's tooth, etc.

On Saturday Bobby felt that he could bear the strain of home life no longer. He got Mrs. Roberts, who with her husband "ran" the Vicarage, to give him a packet of sandwiches, and supplementing this with a bottle of beer which he bought in Marchbolt he set off for a solitary picnic.

He had missed Frankie abominably these last few days. These older people were the limit. They harped on things so.

Bobby stretched himself out on a bracken bank and debated with himself whether he should eat his lunch first and go to sleep afterwards, or sleep first and eat afterwards. While he was cogitating, the matter was settled for him by his falling asleep without noticing it.

When he awoke it was half-past three! Bobby grinned as he thought how his father would disapprove of this way of spending a day. A good walk across country—twelve miles or so—that was the kind of thing that a healthy young man should do. It led inevitably to that famous remark, "And now, I think, I've earned my lunch."

"Idiotic," thought Bobby. "Why earn lunch by doing a lot of walking when you don't particularly want to do? What's the merit in it? If you enjoy it, then it's pure self-indulgence, and if you don't enjoy it you're a fool to do it."

Whereupon he fell to upon his unearned lunch and ate it with gusto. With a sigh of satisfaction he opened the bottle of beer. Unusually bitter beer, but decidedly refreshing.

He lay back again, having tossed the empty beer-bottle into a clump of heather.

He felt rather god-like lounging there. The world was at his feet. A phrase. But a good phrase. He could do anything—anything if he tried! Plans of great splendor and daring initiative flashed through his mind.

Then he grew sleepy again. Lethargy stole over him.

He slept . . .

Heavy, numbing sleep. . .

Driving her large green Bentley, Frankie drew up to the curb outside a large old-fashioned house over the doorway of which was inscribed "St. Asaph's."

Frankie jumped out and, turning, extracted a large bunch of lilies. Then she rang the bell. A woman in nurse's dress answered the door.

"Can I see Mr. Jones?" inquired Frankie.

The nurse's eyes took in the Bentley, the lilies and Frankie with intense interest.

"What name shall I say?"

"Lady Frances Derwent."

The nurse was thrilled, and her patient went up in her estimation. She guided Frankie upstairs into a room on the first floor.

"You're a visitor to see you, Mr. Jones. Now who do you think it is? Such a nice surprise for you."

All this in the "bright" manner usual with nursing homes.

"Gosh!" said Bobby, very much surprised. "If it isn't Frankie!"

"Hullo, Bobby. I've brought the usual flowers. Rather a graveyard suggestion about them, but the choice was limited."

"Oh, Lady Frances," said the nurse, "they're lovely. I'll put them into water."

Frankie sat down in an obvious "visitor's" chair. "Well, Bobby," she said. "What's all this?"

"You may well ask," said Bobby. "I'm the complete sensation of the place. Eight grains of morphia, no less. They're going to write about me in the Lancet and the B.M.J."

"What's the B.M.J.?" interrupted Frankie.

"The British Medical Journal."

"All right. Go ahead. Rattle off some more initials."

"Do you know, my girl, that half a grain is a fatal dose? I ought to be dead about sixteen times over. It's true that recovery has been known after sixteen grains—still, eight is pretty good, don't you think? I'm the hero of this place. They've never had a case like me before."

"How nice for them!"

"Isn't it? Gives them something to talk about to all the other patients."

The nurse re-entered, bearing lilies in vases.

"It's true, isn't it, nurse?" demanded Bobby. "You've never had a case like mine?"

"Oh, you oughtn't to be here at all," said the nurse. "In the churchyard, you ought to be. But it's only the good die young, they say." She giggled at her own wit and went on.

"There you are," said Bobby. "You'll see, I shall be famous all over England."

He continued to talk. Any signs of inferiority complex that he had displayed at his last meeting with Frankie had now quite disappeared. He took a firm and egotistical pleasure in recounting every detail of his case.

"That's enough," said Frankie, quelling him. "I don't really care terribly for stomach pumps. To listen to you one would think nobody had ever been poisoned before."

"Jolly few have been poisoned with eight grains of morphia and got over it," Bobby pointed out.

"Dash it all, you're not sufficiently impressed."

"Pretty sickening for the people who poisoned you," said Frankie.

"I know Waste of perfectly good morphia."

"It was in the beer, wasn't it?"

"Yes. You see, someone found me sleeping like the dead, tried to wake me and couldn't. Then they got alarmed, carried me to a farmhouse, and sent for a doctor—"

"I know all the next part," said Frankie hastily.

"At first they had the idea that I'd taken the stuff deliberately. Then when they heard my story, they went off and looked for the beer-bottle and found it where I'd thrown it and had it analyzed—the dregs of it were quite enough for that apparently."

No clue as to how the morphia got in the bottle?

"None whatever. They've interviewed the pub where I bought it, and opened other bottles, and everything's been quite all right."

"Someone must have put the stuff in the beer while you were asleep?"

"That's it. I remember that the top wasn't still sticking properly."

Frankie nodded thoughtfully.

"Well," she said, "it shows that what I said in the train that day was quite right."

"What did you say?"

"That that man—Pritchard—had been pushed over the cliff."

"That wasn't in the train. You said that at the station," said Bobby feebly.

"Same thing."

"But why—"

"Darling — it's obvious. Why should anyone want to put you out of the way?"

SEVERE WEATHER
SMASHES RECORD

York—The severe weather this week caused A. Charles Senft, teacher of Beck's school, North Codorus township, to break a record of 39 years' standing. During his entire teaching experience, 39 years Mr. Senft has always been able to reach his school house in spite of weather conditions. On Monday morning, because of the snow, he was unable to reach the school. However, 26 of his pupils were able to get to the school house that day. On Tuesday, he had an attendance of 35 out of 41 pupils. At the present time, he is able to get to school by walking about a mile and a half over the snow drifts.

SUICIDE HELD SLAYER OF SIX IN HIS FAMILY

Paris, Ill., Jan. 25 (AP).—A coroner's jury decided Friday that the seven members of the Albers family, whose bodies were found on Thursday in a snowbound farmhouse six miles south of Sidell, Illinois, died from gunshot wounds or fractures inflicted by William Albers, 54, the husband and father.

Albers, the jury verdict said, "took his own life, with suicidal intent," using the target rifle which slew his wife, 45; Shirley, 2; Eugene, 4, and Forrest, 10. The two older boys, John, 17, and Wilfred 14, had suffered fractured skulls apparently from a baseball bat, wielded by the father.

The date of the death in the cases of the children and Mrs. Albers was fixed at "early in January." Thursday, when a posse approached the house to shoot where the family was, Albers learned himself.

OKLAHOMA MAY LEASE
CAPITOL GROUNDS FOR OIL

Oklahoma City, Jan. 25 (AP).—Derricks may rise where petunias grow in the sunken gardens around Oklahoma's domed capitol.

The board of affairs prepared advertisements Friday night to lease for oil drilling all the capitol grounds, land around the governor's mansion, the sunken gardens south of the capitol and the University of Oklahoma hospital property.

The board's twenty-five-levelling program was criticized by R. R. Owens, state budget officer, because it would interfere with beautifying the grounds.

$250,000 SLANDER SUIT
LOST IN CHICAGO COURT

Chicago, Jan. 25 (AP).—A direct verdict for John L. Kellogg was ordered Friday by Judge Ray D. Penson in the $250,000 slander suit brought by Mrs. Julia Moore Dean.

In ordering the jury to enter a finding for Kellogg, son of the founder of a Battle Creek (Michigan) cereal company, Judge Penson held Mrs. Dean had not proved special damages.

Her suit charged Kellogg had termed her "a crook and a gold digger" and had cost her $50,000 in commissions on a stock transaction and a $10,000-a-year job.

Los Angeles, Jan. 25 (AP).—Mrs. Marie Flynn Riker, who testified she took brandy to bolster her spirits for an airplane ride and "came to" to discover herself married to Edwin J. Tierney, Hollywood dance director, obtained an annulment Friday.

She told of an airplane trip with her sister, Kitty O'Dare, film actress, and Franklin Stevens, Jr., to celebrate the marriage of Miss O'Dare and Stevens.

"I was deathly afraid of flying, and refused to go," Mrs. Riker testified, "so they gave me brandy to steady my nerves, and that's all I remember."

NEGREO KNIVES
DEPUTY; SHOT

Defendant in Scotsboro Case
Charged With Attacking
One of Guards.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 25 (AP).—Ozie Powell, one of the nine negro defendants in the Scotsboro case, was shot in the head when he allegedly knifed an officer returning him here from Decatur, Alabama, scene of the trials, Friday.

The incident occurred near Cullman, Alabama, as the prisoners were being transferred to the Jefferson county (Birmingham) jail in Birmingham following postponement of the trial of Clarence Norris, second of the negroes to face retrial under a Supreme Court order.

The first to be tried, Heywood Patterson was convicted and sentenced to seventy-five years' imprisonment Thursday. Previously he had been sentenced to death three times, but won reversals.

Deputy Sheriff Slashed

Deputy Sheriff Edgar Blalock was slashed across the neck, but was not critically wounded. He was released from a Cullman hospital after several stitches were taken to close the gash.

Powell was hurried to the county hospital here after receiving emergency treatment at Cullman. An X-ray examination Friday night revealed a bullet inside his skull.

The bullet entered the skull near the top of the forehead and stopped just above the right ear.

Dr. W. S. Littlejohn, beginning an operation, said the prisoner had "better than an even chance."

Blalock said the negro was shot by Sheriff J. Street Sandlin of Morgan county, of which Decatur is the seat when Powell attacked the deputy.

Second Negro Attacks

Sheriff Sandlin, who was assisting the detail transferring the negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said Roy Wright, another of the defendants, attacked him as Powell knifed Blalock.

Sandlin said he immediately halted the automobile and fired several shots.

"I started grappling with Wright and then I saw that the negro on the right side, Powell, had cut Blalock's throat," Sandlin said.

"Powell was reaching for Blalock's gun when I dropped him."

Powell was questioned several minutes at the jail here before he was removed under heavy guard to the county hospital.

TRAIN KILLS
9 OF FAMILY

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 25 (AP).—A speeding passenger train killed ten members of a family on relief Friday, striking their stalled automobile broadside and scattering the bodies along hundreds of feet of railroad right of way.

Marion McBride, 43, of near Grabbill, Ind.; his 41-year-old wife, and eight of the nine McBride children, all riding in a sedan, were killed instantly or fatally injured. Two little girls were picked up from the debris and taken to a hospital, critically hurt.

A baby, still-born to Mrs. McBride was found in the wreckage.

Returning From Funeral

The family had been in Fort Wayne attending the funeral of the husband of Mrs. William Conner, sister-in-law of Mrs. McBride. As they neared their home neighborhood, the automobile stalled on the railroad crossing.

A Detroit-bound Wabash passenger train plowed into the car, scattering bodies and wreckage in all directions and ground to a stop hundreds of feet down the track. The locomotive was badly damaged.

The dead children were: Clara, 14; Marion McBride, Jr.; Clara, 10; Arthur, 8; Virginia, 6; Robert, 3, and Richard and Romona, 15-month-old twins.

Clara McBride, 14, and Phyllis, 4, were brought to St. Joseph's Hospital at Fort Wayne where Clara died tonight. Physicians said Phyllis may not live. Bodies of the others were removed to the Grabbill railroad station.

All occupants of the car were mangled. Ambulance attendants said some were dead when picked up and others died enroute to hospitals. Albert Neunshwanger, relief administrator, said the family had been on relief for some time.

FINDS SHE WAS MARRIED
AFTER RIDE IN AIRPLANE

Los Angeles, Jan. 25 (AP).—Mrs. Marie Flynn Riker, who testified she took brandy to bolster her spirits for an airplane ride and "came to" to discover herself married to Edwin J. Tierney, Hollywood dance director, obtained an annulment Friday.

She told of an airplane trip with her sister, Kitty O'Dare, film actress, and Franklin Stevens, Jr., to celebrate the marriage of Miss O'Dare and Stevens.

"I was deathly afraid of flying, and refused to go," Mrs. Riker testified, "so they gave me brandy to steady my nerves, and that's all I remember."
